In our increasingly complex global landscape, shaped by war, political instability, epidemics, and deeply rooted injustices, Equity, Inclusion, and Sustainability emerge as crucial pillars of public health and fundamental rights that safeguard both people and the planet.

This Congress will convene global health leaders to explore how these principles can guide a unified response to the world's most pressing health challenges. Attendees will participate in dynamic discussions, forge international collaborations, and develop innovative solutions to advance global public health, ensuring a future of health without borders for generations to come.
